

PETEY'S LOCAL BUSINESS HIGHLIGHT:

Food and love are undeniably connected at the Chococoa Baking Company for the husband and wife team of Alan Mons and Julie Ganong. Julie will tell you that to this day the aroma of warm, fresh-baked treats coming out of the oven take her back to her childhood growing up in Maine and making whoopie pies with her grandmother and mother. For Alan, his warm memories of baking with his Mom are stirred up along with a young boy's dream of cooking up a secret recipe for a gourmet delight that no one could resist. When they both lost their corporate finance jobs & discussed the idea of starting a business together the inspiration they needed to give new life to old memories emerged: Whoopie pies. The Whoopie is a smaller, richer tasting and made with premium chocolate and all-natural ingredients. Filled with 14 gourmet flavors of pure buttercream, the 2-inch bite-size cakes are a perfect size for a treat or dessert. Only 130-160 calories and no trans fats – The Whoopie is truly a twist on the classic whoopie pie. They also offer a line of gluten-free Whoopies. In our Baker's Dozen years the Chococoa Baking Company in the seaport village of Newburyport, Massachusetts has grown from making them in their kitchen to about 10,000 a week. Plus the Whoopie is shipped out in insulated, assorted gift packs to friends and fans all over the country.
